Larry Jay Tish and Ron Jones delivered a phenomenal performance to Owens Community College last Fall. They were incredibly engaging and kept the audience laughing while intertwining an educational context. Using a humorous approach to encourage the audience to recognize and appreciate similarities as well as differences was incredibly effective for the college atmosphere.

In addition to that, they were able to capture the interests of students and generate a large audience. Being at a Community College makes it difficult to get commuter students to attend our events, however, the diversity of their program was attractive enough to gain a large crowd during the day. Their performance was fantastic and our money was well spent.

We will have them back again and again!
